PENINSULAR & ORIENTAL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY. NOTICE OF REDUCTION OF PASS. AGE MONEY.

Hongkong, 14th June, 1861.

IN the year 1857 the Directors made a consider-1 able reduction in the Company's rates of Passage Money, which continued in force till 1861. In that year, owing to the extraordinary rise in the Cost and Freight of Coals, and the enhanced price of all descriptions of Naval Stores, the Directors were reluctantly compelled to return to the rates of Passage Money previously in force. They are now happy to state that a decrease in the price of Coal and other expenses of Steam Navigation enables them to reduce the Company's Passage rates to the undernoted scale, which will take effect from and after the 1st June next, viz:-From Hongkong to:-Maltu. Reserved Rates for Single Persons.

If people without a history were necessarily happy, the golden age would have begun a week ago; for the inhabitants of Old Europe; Correspondents are dumb, the journals silent, and speculators, generally well furnished with news-wander about seeking a pretext for the rise they desire or the fall they fear. a month past we have been in a state of feverawaiting the first results of the Conference of London, and whilst some pretended that peace was decided on, others declared that war was i evitable and would shortly take place. must avow that this latter opinion appeared to me very reasonable. At this moment we have neither peace or war but a state infinitely more disagreeable, full of doubts and uneasiness. It has been decided it is true, that the Danes shall raise the blockade of the German Ports, and the Austro-Prussians on the condition of retaining the position they occupy have consented to a suspension of arms for a month, from 12th of May. It is effecting much no doubt, to stop the effusion of blood, but very little if we compare what is done with what remains to be done.

Since the signing of the suspension of hostilities a multitude of incidents shew us th difficulty of concluding a durable peace. the first place at the hour when the Danisl Plenipotentiaries, furnished with secret instructions from King Christian, consented to the raising of the blockade, the Austrian Squadron of the North Sea, heaten by the Danish fleet, took refuge at Heligoland. The news received at Copenhagen with transports of joy, and at Vienna with cries of rage-was saluted at London in the House of Commons by three jounds of hearty cheers—to the great fury of the Austrian Press which pours forth.

its thunders against England. In fact in Denmark, three Ministers have given in their resignation on account of having refused to sign a suspension of arms which they considered as humiliating for spite of the express terms of the convention, they have continued to raise contributions of war, and to treat Jutland as a conquered country. However it is said that if the King Christian has consented to raise the blockade, it is because England took a formal engagement to join in the war if by chance it commences again on the 12th of June; another symptom as little perceable as the others. You know, Mr. Editor, how circumspect Sweden has been for the last three months, only moving according to the advice of the Cabinet of St. James. Well, the Moniteur announces that a Swedish fleet is getting read to cruise in the Danish waters. Nothing less than a miracle can render peace possible at the present moment. Every incident is of importance in the present situation of affairs; for instance, I must note to you particularly the reception of Mr. de Beust the representative of the German Diet by the English Ministers. Lord Palmerston scarcely deigned to salute this Diplomatist, who in his turn refused an invitation to an evening party given by Lady Palmerston. As to France, Russia, and Austria, these three powers are impenetrable, and I am not Œdipus to guess the enigmas posed by these

One thing positive is that the Palmerston Cabinet is seriously compromised—not only by its policy, but still more so by its internal policy. A very great division has just taken place in the very bosom of the Cabinet. Mr. Bains brought forward a motion in the House of Commous tending to the extension of the Electoral franchise and the democratisation of Universal Suffrage; rejected by a majority of 56 voices, this proposition was fortunate enough to receive the encouragement of the Chancellor of the Exchequer Mr. Gladstone, who acknowledged that the working classes had a right to the suffrage. A thunderstorm bursting in the midst of the Cabinet of St. James would have frightened Lord Palmerstor less than the unforeseen discourse of his colleague, who has just placed himself at the head of the radicals. But the actual Cabinet is so far discomposed, that in spite of the counsels of the Times, Lord Palmerston dare not get rid of the assistance of Mr. Gladstone. It is said it is true, that the First Lord of the Treasury, born as you know in 1784, will be forced by reason of his health to resign his functions-and it is not impossible in this case, that Mr. Gladstone might be called on to succeed him-but I believe that Lord Palmerston will fall rather than retire from a Post that he has so long occu-

The Liber al opinion of Europe is with Mo Gladstone. And the French Journals, too of ten unjust for English Statesmen, are unani mous in their praise. A great partisan of peace and economical reforms, Mr. Gladstone is, it is said greatly protected by the Queen, who will not hear talk of a war against the Germans-and yet we must arrive at this extremity if we do not wish to see Denmark absorbed by Prussia. La Gazette de Berlin, a progressionist organ, announces that the Prussians would see with pleasure the Duchies united under the sceptre of the Duke of Angustembourg, but on the condition that Scheswig-Holstein should be placed under the protection of Prussia. Mr. de Bismarck is entirely of this opinion, and is endeavoring by promising to guarantee Austria her posessions in Hungary and Venice, to interest her in his ambitious projects. As to the King William, I need not tell you he is devoted to his first Minister-who has no other will than that of his Minister. On the occasion of the discussion of the French Budget, the oppsition represented by Berrger, Thiers, Jules Favre, Polletan, Glois Bigoin, and especially Picard-renewed the exposition of their griefs. The government was shown to have an undecided Foreign Policybordering on the adventurous, one day encouraging the Poles and the next bowing to the notes of Gortschakoff, the friend of the King of Denmark, and on good terms with Germany, boasting of its sympathies for Italy and persisting in retaining Rome. I pass in silence the oratorical storm to which the Mexirelied on the following facts. The budgets of the Monarchy of July and the Republic only reached the sum of 1.500 millions whilst for some years past they amount regularly to Three Rooms, Bath Rooms, &c. Rent $10 per two thousand and some hundreds of millions. and yetwe have no more liberty now than under the two Governments before mentioned Mr. Rouhers, the Minister of state, bravely sustained these attacks, but his arguments did not appear to me conclusive. He makes too much use of the honor of the French Flag and the glory of France-and other fine speeches all very well for after dinner orations at the banquets of the Old Soldiers of the Empress. No one has attacked the honor of France, and it displays very bad grace to invoke Solfering and Magenta-in replying, to persons who only reproach a want of firmness in policy. Solfering was followed by the peace of Villaf.anca, and Rome and Venice are still waiting for the realisation of the famous programme of "Italy free from the Alps to the Adriatic." The moral to be derived from the discussions in the Corps Legislatif, is-that the government is more decided than ever to put the Liberals on one side. All the government commissions although less aggessive than usual were very clear on this point. The Press will not be more free te-morrow, than yesterday and the right of meeting, essential to the principle of 89-can only he exercised by those who will use it in a sense evidently favorable to the government. -You remember the affair of Lesugues -the unfortunate guillotined in 1796 by a judicial error. The Corps Logislatif has just reclaimed the reinstatement of this innocent-u rejustatement vainly solicited by his family for the last 70 years. Jules Favre on this occasion pronounced a few eloquent words against the punishment of death. The rumours of ministerial modifications continue to circulate with an uneasy persistance. The governmental regious are divided into tones -in the one moves Mr. de Morny who considers constitutional liberty as indispensable for the maintenance of the Imperia dynasty. In the other Mr de Pessigny agitates-he is the Champion of Salutary rigonrs. These two personages are this moment engaged in a steeple chase the object of which is a Portfol'o. I have every reason to believe Mr. de Bereigny will win; Mr. de Morny in effect wishes to become President of the Council-which means ministerial responsibility-and if we may believe the govenment orators, this is still in future.

The news from Italy-foreshadow an early denouement to the Roman question. The Holy Father who was believed to be cured has had a severe relapse. His ulcerated legs covered with tumours cause him to be compared to Job-and the old gentleman is gradually sinking. This time the illness is serious-and the Italian National party who already discount the death of the Holy Father. and who imagine, too easily I am of opinion, that from that day will date Italian Unity, is taking its measures in consequence. A member of the Italian Parliament has thought right to question the ministry on the action it intended to take with regard to Rome; he even proposed to annex the Poutifical States the daily supervision of an experienced English in spite of the French by inviting the Ro- Builder. mans to send two deputies to the Turin Parliament. The Chamber on the motion of Mr. Minghetti passed to the order of the day, but Garibaldi has at length returned to his sland of Caprera. The Prince Couza-executive chief of Moldo Wallachia-and the protégé of France has their Country. As to the Prussians and in just accomplished a Coup d'etat. The Deputies annoyed him-he consequently turned them out-but took care according to custom, to ask of Universal Suffrage the justification of his conduct. It appears that Turkey, the Prince Couza and the Cabinet of the Toileries have agreed not to allow any interference whether by Russia or Austria in the Danubian provinces,—it is even said that n case of necessity they will not recoil before another Crimean war. I think Prince Couza would do well to meditate on the position of Denmark before he attempts to irritate Rus-

Military operations have been delayed by folent storms and the state of the roads. General Lee has received considerable reuforcements and has fortified with care his position on the Rapidan. It appears that the plan of the Federals is to march upon Michmond from three different points—one army will march from the West to threaten the right flank, the other under the orders of Burnside will come from North Carolina and fall on the rear of Richmond-and General Grant at the head of the third Army will march directly from the North and give bathe hands of the Federats, and the war will downs. If on the contrary, General Grant is repuls. ed-the Confederates will be forced to beat Smith and Burnside;—in this case—scarcely probable—the war will last another year. The Federals have sustained two serious checks-the loss of Fort Pillow, and the defeat of the army of General Banks-but the importance of these was exaggerated and cannot have any influence on the war. The commercial situation at New York is very tight on account of the rise in exchange, but this fact, which is reproduced on the eve of all the battles announced before hand, indicates nothing-and is to be attributed to speculation only. The Massacres at Fort Pillow have produced great excitement throughout the North. President Lincoln, who will shortly submit to the chances of a re-election, is difinitively the Candidate of the Republican party, and the perspective of his re-election causes a great unount of tranquillity in the North.
